Objectives

- Engage students with real-life Holocaust stories through short-form video that feels relevant and accessible.
- Encourage empathy and personal connection by inviting students to reflect and write letters to individuals from the past.
- Develop emotional literacy and historical awareness by discussing the impact of memory, loss, and resilience.
- Introduce digital storytelling as a tool for remembrance and critical thinking about how we share history today.

LESSON PLAN

Main Activity

Part 1: Watch & Discuss

 20-25 min

1. Students watch selected TikToks (use QR codes or play on screen).

Suggested videos:

- Felicia Haberfeld and her daughter
- Marta & Olga (first day of school)
- Szymon Kluger (last Jewish resident of Oświęcim)
- Henryk Enoch (school notebook)
- The Feiner brothers (survivors)

2. Short educator-led discussion after viewing:

- What moment or detail stayed with you?
- Did anything feel familiar or surprisingly emotional?
- Why do you think this person's story matters today?

Part 2: Letter Writing

 25-30 min

Prompt:

Choose one person from the videos. Imagine you could write them a letter – what would you say?

Guide them with a few suggestions:

- Tell them what their story made you feel
- Share something about your own life they might relate to
- Ask them a question
- Offer something – hope, memory, connection

Let students know:

“This is your personal connection to history. It doesn’t need to be perfect. Just real.”

Closing 20 min1. Sharing Letters (Optional, 10-15 min)

- Invite volunteers to read aloud — no pressure.
- Emphasize respect, listening, and openness.

2. Final Reflection

- Was writing this letter harder or easier than you expected?
- How did it change the way you think about the past?
- Why do you think remembering ordinary people is important?
